STEEL CORPORATION MAY BE BACK OF NEW RAILROAD.

Meeting of Directors of the Fairmont & Southern to be Held at Fairmont Tomorrow.

TO FORMULATE THEIR PLANS.

For Beginning the Construction of the Railroad—Benjamin F. Overholt of Scottdale One of the Prime Movers in the Development of the Road. To Open Coal Lands.

A Baltimore dispatch says the United States Steel Corporation, it was learned today is backing the new Fairmont and Southern railroad, which is to be built from the coal fields of West Virginia into Pittsburg.

The statement several days ago that the new road was to be built aroused considerable speculation in railroad and coal circles as to the identity of the mysterious backers, but today the mystery was cleared, when it became known that the steel interests are actively associated in the project, a fact that not only insures its realization, but is a guarantee that the coal properties of Tygarts Valley will be developed on a large scale.

A meeting of directors has been called at Fairmont, W. Va., for Thursday, at which time plans will be formulated for the actual construction of the road. There is to be no delay, those associated with the movement say. Rights of way have been practically secured and money will not be lacking. It is said there will be no difficulty in securing an inlet into Pittsburg, as the steel interests are in a position to readily effect this.

The men who appear in the project are John F. Williams of Baltimore; Ralph Overholt, Pittsburg; Benjamin F. Overholt, Scottdale, Pa.; Charles F. Teter, Paullippi, W. Va., and Waltman H. and Charles B. Conway of Fairmont, W. Va. The Overholts are cousins of Mr. Frick.

The company is chartered under the laws of West Virginia with a capital of $25,000, which will be increased at almost any time.

The road will pierce the rich coal fields along the Tygarts Valley, starting at Belington, W. Va., in Barbour county, and will proceed along the most practicable survey to the Monongahela river, taking in the cities of Grafton and Fairmont. From Fairmont the line is planned to Pittsburg.

It is understood the promoters would be willing to come to an agreement with some other road which can reach Pittsburg, and either use its tracks, or combine with it in building to that terminus.

It is known that the Wabash interests have been approached with a view of using a Uniontown Pittsburg route, as has the Baltimore & Ohio.

From what can be learned it is believed very little encouragement has been extended the new enterprise by the Baltimore & Ohio, which is more interested in the completion of the Manhannon & Northern, another road which proposes to cover the Tygart Valley region. Four miles of this road are now in operation, but its further progression is impeded by litigation.

The purpose of the steel corporation is to get the West Virginia coke and coal to its plants in the vicinity of Pittsburg. The coal of this region, as well as being cheaper, is said to possess peculiar properities which make it superior for the purposes of steel manufacturing demonstrated by its use by the Maryland Steel Company. The steel corporation now owns large properties in the West Virginia fields.

LOUD WHISTLING.

Of Baltimore & Ohio Engineers the Cause of General Complaint All Over Town.

Many complaints are being filed against the loud and unnecessary whistling by Baltimore & Ohio engineers as they pass through the yards. Many of the engineers make a practise of continually whistling before they are permitted to enter the yards, and frequently keep it up for an hour. This has resulted in many complaints against the company. Many railroad men who have been asked regarding the whistling say that it is unnecessary.

It is said that many engineers coming into the yards indulge in the practise to let their wives know that they are home. It is a signal to them to get supper ready. It is a practise that many worthy people in town would like to have abolished.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Charles Wellendorf Accused of Killing His Uncle at New Castle.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—Charles Wellendorf, arrested Sunday night on suspicion of killing his uncle, Ernest Bauman, was formally charged with murder today. The hearing will be held next week. This murder charge forestalls any attempt by counsel to secure his release on habeas corpus proceedings. Superintendent Goodwin of the Pittsburg Pinkerton agency has come to take charge of the case.

$2,600 SUBSCRIBED.

For the Free Bridge Celebration—Enthusiastic Meeting and Plans Formulated.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Executive Committee of the Merchants' Association regarding the free bridge celebration on October 1, was held last evening in the merchants' hall. One of the features of the meeting was the report of the Finance Committee, who reported that $2,600 was already in sight toward the celebration.

Robert Hannam, Charles Russell and James Buttermore were appointed a committee on music, while Hugh Sauter, Willis Dull, C. B. Downs, W. H. Colborn, Harry Sweeney, John Crop and John Laughrey were appointed a committee of merchants' clerks to organize and have all clerks attend the celebration in a body.

Robert Norris, J. M. Young, H. L. Silcox and D. Sinclair were added to the finance committee and John Dugan of New Haven was appointed on the New Haven finance committee. A communication was received from the Craft Fife and Drum Corps of Brownsville asking to furnish music on that day. The committee on music was instructed to notify the corps to be present at the celebration. It was also decided that on midnight, when the bridge becomes free, all the whistles, church bells and fire alarm will be sounded.

TWO MEN KILLED.

West Penn Feed Wire Falls on Barbed Wire Fence in a Severe Storm Near Greensburg.

United Press Telegram.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 11.—As a result of the severe storm that swept Westmoreland county last night two men were electrocuted and two others shocked into insensibility. The men were all miners living at Arona, seven miles from here, and were enroute home.

While crossing a field they started through a barbed wire fence. A broken feed wire of the West Penn Railways Company had conducted the current into a fence wire, giving it a voltage estimated at about 30,000 volts. As soon as the men touched the wire they were killed instantly. The two who escaped were behind and it is not explained just how they were injured.

ALL CLOSED CARS.

Those of the Summer Variety Have Been Taken Off the West Penn Lines for the Present.

For the present only closed cars are being run on the West Penn lines, the decidedly unfavorable weather making this a necessity. For the past week or so the closed cars have been placed in service, but today is the first that all the summer ones have been out of commission.

If there is any moderation of the weather it is possible that summer cars, or a few of them at least, may be placed in commission for a day or so.

Cortellese Pleads Guilty.

Domonic Cortellese this morning pled guilty to selling liquor on Sunday and maintaining a disorderly house on Peach street, Connellsville. The house was raided by County Detective McBeth some weeks ago.

To Increase Mills.

Preparations are being made to increase the tin mills at Sabraton from 10 to 20 hot mills.

TWO GUILTY BOYS.

Scottdale Fourteen-Year-Olds Got Away With a Good Big Wad.

A REGULAR ROBBERS' DEN.

Howard Newmyer and Frank Lewellyn Came to Connellsville to Enjoy Their Stolen Wealth—Arrested in School.

SCOTTDALE, Sept. 11.—The long arm of the law reached out and gathered in two young lads on Tuesday, accused of entering the pockets of John Richey, while he was in the bath room of the Y. M. C. A., and taking at least $45 Saturday. The boys are Howard Newmyer and Frank Lewellyn, and both of them confessed when Chief Frank McCudden and Policeman J. P. Murphy took them. Each of the boys was quietly removed from the school room, the officers sending the Principal in after them, while they were secreted around a corner so that the teachers and pupils did not know what was happening.

After the boys were picked up they conducted the officers to the retreats of the gang in which they are members, three shanties built at the Newmyer boy's home. The Chief squeezed into one of the dens and pulling a board loose in the wall revealed the hiding place of about $20, the confessed share of the booty of the Newmyer boy. The Lewellyn boy apparently had no confidence in any of the four banking institutions of town and had his bank account in a brick pile down town. It amounted to over $20. On Saturday they got the money, the Newmyer boy saying that he lifted it, at the coaxing of the Lewellyn boy. They took the pocketbook to an alley near the borough building, and there opened it.

Lewellyn at the sight of the great wealth showing up said that he wanted to return it, but the other boy denies this. Then they went to Connellsville and going to a Greek fruit dealers had $5 changed so that each boy got $22.50. Then they hurt their eyesight by visiting all the nickelodeons in the Metropolis of the Yough, and threatened themselves with indigestion in a gorgeous orgy of pies and such truck. Neither of the boys feel at all comfortable over their plight, which is not unnatural, as they have been in difficulties before, and the officers are not feeling in an indulgent an attitude as regarded former offences. Mr. Ritchey insists that more than $45 was taken and about this there seems something of a mystery. The matter is being held under advisement and will likely be decided about this evening.

REUNION OF OLD PUPILS.

Invitations for Gathering of Rostraver Boys of 20 Years Ago.

BELLEVERNON, Pa., Sept. 11.—Invitations were today sent out for the first reunion of the Harmony school, in Rostraver township, Westmoreland county, on Thursday, September 19. The school was organized about 1720. At the close of the school year of 1837 the class agreed to celebrate the 20th anniversary. It is in pursuance of this pledge that the survivors have arranged for a great gathering of the teachers and pupils, both old and new.

SCHOOL TOO SMALL.

Connellsville Township Directors Compelled to Rent Another Room.

The Gibson school in Connellsville township is so badly overcrowded that it is necessary for the School Board to employ another teacher. A meeting of the Board was held last night in the Title & Trust building and it was decided to rent another room and employ another teacher. The room will be opened as quickly as it is possible to secure one. There are about 450 pupils enrolled at the Gibson school.

The following bills were approved: Mrs. Laura Tressler, janitress, services, $5; John Helms, same, $50; Mrs. Sadie Leichliter, same, $10; John Lolash, same, $10; Homer Stillwagon, painting, $21; Hal Reager, painting, $21; Schell Hardware Company, $31; Atlantic Refining Company, floor oils, $20.65; J. E. Somerville, carpenter work, $18.30; Rand, McNally & Company, Chicago, books, $12; Johnston Coal Company, $4.33; Connellsville News Publishing Company, $19.70; E. Dunn, window shades, $8; Title & Trust Company of Western Pennsylvania, room rent, $22.50; The Courier Company, $21; Eugene Whitehaltor, painting, $5; W. G. Johnston & Company, Pittsburg, supplies, $89.80; South Connellsville Lumber Company, material and labor, $30.45.

Laborers on Strike.

The street laborers of Donora, seven in number, are striking for more pay or shorter hours. They have been paid $1.60 for a 10 hour day. They now want their hours reduced to nine or their pay increased to $1.75.

Back From Convention.

Charles Buttermore of Latrobe is visiting his parents, Squire and Mrs. P. M. Buttermore, of New Haven. He is on his return home from Norfolk, Va., where he was a delegate to the Eagles' convention.

BUFFALO BILL HERE.

Came to Town in a Heavy Down Pour of Rain But Outlook Brightened

SHOW ONE OF THE BIG ONES.

An Especially Large Crowd of Indians of All Tribes With the Show—Some Excitement Attends the Unloading. Performance This Afternoon.

Buffalo Bill and his great Wild West Show is here at last. True they got in a little wet, but about noon the clouded skies cleared away and gave promise of a more favorable afternoon and evening. The show is a big one; one of the greatest on earth. As a wild west aggregation it has no equal. Buffalo Bill, himself a veteran scout, is of course the central figure of the immense aggregation, but every one of his hundreds of performers is an expert.

Unloading the show this morning was attended with the usual features that mark the arrival of every big show. Water street was crowded all morning. Hundreds of people stood in the rain for hours, watching the picturesque scene. There were a few trivial accidents, but none of them serious. Those in front of the Haas hotel were treated with a free performance, not down on any of the bills. One of the men was guiding a big wagon tongue over the cars. Between two of the big flat cars a wheel slipped and dropped. The tongue flew up like a catapult, throwing the man high in the air. He was hurled several feet, turning a complete somersault, landing on his feet in the street. He wasn't hurt a bit.

Another of the big wagons went on a rampage coming down the skids and crashed into the pavement. The tongue struck several bystanders but none was seriously hurt.

The two sections got in about 8.15 this morning. It was delayed in loading at Uniontown. Once here the men made things fly. By a record breaking rush everything was rushed to Marietta-Stillwagon park and, in spite of the late start, the opening performance this afternoon will suffer little or no delay. The cowboys, Indians, Japanese and other foreigners with the aggregation presented a picturesque sight on their horses. The live stock of the show looks exceptionally well.

At Uniontown yesterday both performances were largely attended and the show made a decided hit. There are new and novel features with it this year. Buffalo Bill has just returned from a tour of Europe.

CRIMINAL LIST IS RUSHED; OFFICIALS AFTER A RECORD.

Every Effort Being Made to Clear Up the Criminal List This Week and Save County Money.

OLD FOLKS' RECEPTION.

Of the Methodist Episcopal Church on Saturday Evening.

The regular monthly business and social meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church was held last evening at the home of Mrs. L. S. Michaels on Eighth street, Greenwood. During the business session final arrangements were made for the annual old folks' reception to be held on Saturday afternoon.

At the close of the session a delightful social hour was held, various games and music being the amusements. Refreshments were served at a late hour. The attendance was large and the meeting was an interesting and enjoyable one.

PARKS ARE CLOSING.

Season for Them Is Fast Drawing to an End—Olympia Has But a Few Dates.

The summer park season is fast drawing to a close and within a week or so the most of the amusement places in this neighborhood will be closed down. Olympia Park has a few scattering dates up until September 18, but the theatre there has closed down and there is little doing.

Next Saturday will see the end of Oakford Park, which has had a very successful season, considering the adverse climatic conditions.

Shady Grove will remain open longer than the rest. Manager R. S. Coyle is placing his faith in a late fall and will keep the park open as long as there is any chance for good weather.

This has been one of the worst seasons imaginable for parks. Constant rains, added to a late spring and almost universal cool nights, have almost put many of the parks out of business. Managers are hoping for better times next year.

HEARS FROM BOYS.

Burgess Solsson Gets a Letter From the Runaway Garrison Lads of Wilkinsburg.

Burgess Solsson yesterday afternoon was in receipt of a communication from LeMoyne Garrison, one of the two brothers who were apprehended here while trying to run away from their Wilkinsburg home. They were headed for Morgantown when apprehended.

The boys say they didn't get walloped, as they expected, on returning home, but were treated to a real good dinner. The meals at the borough bastile were not so good, as the buns would have tasted much better had they been buttered.

They sent thanks to Officer Anderson for getting them supper one night. The lads say they are going to school regularly and are glad the officers got them and sent them home.

THEY BOTH PAID.

Susie Franklin and Robert Tinsley Raise the Necessary $20 and Purchase Freedom.

Both Susie Franklin and Robert Tinsley, who were arrested Monday by State Constable Mason for fighting at the Tinsley home on Prospect street, have paid their fines of $20 each to Burgess Solsson. Susie turned over her double sawbuck to the Burgess this morning while Tinsley got his yesterday. Sheriff Kiefer is thus robbed of the company of these two for a month.

This morning four drunks of the common variety were given a hearing. One paid a fine of $3.50 while the Pinkey for 48 or 72 hours, as the case may be, three will reside at Hotel de Diner.

Christie Is Improving.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 11.—(Special.) The condition of Walter Christie, noted auto inventor and daring driver, who was injured in an accident at Brunot's Island Monday, is reported improved today. It is stated that he may be out in a week.

The Weather.

Fair tonight and Thursday; cooler tonight, is the report of the noon weather bulletin.

MOST OF THE CASES TRIVIAL.

Several Verdicts Returned this Morning While Many Offenders Enter Pleas of Guilty—Saltlick Supervisors to Increase the Tax Levy.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 11.—The court and District Attorney, Thomas H. Hudson, are straining every nerve to complete the entire criminal list this week and if this is accomplished a new record will be set in Fayette county records. To complete the long trial list this week means the saving of hundreds of dollars to the county. Every way to save time is taken advantage of. Fortunately most of the cases are trivial ones and little time is lost in the selection of a jury. As fast as one case is placed on trial the witnesses for the next are hunted up, so that no time is lost in this manner.

Ezra Dougherty was acquitted of the charge of aggravated assault and battery with intent to kill. He shot Charles Ramsey, whom he discovered in his home on the night of July 4. The case was taken up yesterday afternoon and went to the jury about 3 o'clock. The jury reached a verdict within a few minutes.

The case against Charles Lowry and Charles R. Lowry, tried yesterday, have been concluded. This was the outcome of a scrap above Dunbar a few weeks ago. Both defendants were found not guilty of assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery, but were nicked with the costs. Charles R. Lowry was convicted of carrying concealed weapons. Nick Beirlacqua, the prosecutor of the Lowrys, was convicted of carrying concealed weapons, which was charged by Constable A. C. Duncan.

Patrick O'Leary, Jr., and Daniel O'Leary, charged with assault and battery by Patrick O'Leary, Sr., were acquitted but must pay the costs. This is the outcome of a scrap at Oliver.

Jesse Gariner, the colored man who had a fight with William Price, also colored, over a game of crap at Leisenring No. 2, July 15, was convicted of felonious assault and battery. He shot at Price, two bullets taking effect.

Frank Gerdice this morning entered a plea of guilty to desertion and nonsupport, he having been prosecuted by Annie Gerdice, his wife. John Francesco pled guilty to assault and battery on Emma Francesco, his wife. It was alleged that he swiped her one with a chair. Levi Gales was convicted of desertion.

Frank Ross who shot Officer O'Bryon through the hand some weeks ago was found guilty but recommended to the mercy of the court. Ross pled ignorance to the crime, but was convicted anyhow.

P. G. Sotus was tried yesterday for embezzlement by consignee, F. T. Adams being the prosecutor. It was alleged that Sotus received goods to sell on commission and failed to turn the money over. He was acquitted but must pay the costs.

The first case taken up before Judge Umbel this morning was that of Special Officer Jack Kennedy of Brownsville, who is charged with larceny by Frank P. Eicher of Grindstone. Eicher was sued for a $16 bill contracted by his wife. Kennedy went after the money which Eicher agreed to pay, and said there was $16.32 costs. Eicher now says the costs should have only been $4 or $5.

Frank Tirch is on trial before Judge Reppert for pointing firearms and larceny, charged by Isaac R. Johnston of Luzerne township. Tirch is alleged to have shot through Johnston's kitchen door and later returned and stole several rifles and shotguns.

M. D. Clifford and D. W. Wheeler of Uniontown went on trial this morning before Judge Reppert for a charge of larceny from the person and robbery. The prosecutor, Percy Miller, says the two came upon him and a young lady along the road near Atlas and demanded $20, threatening to take them to Uniontown if he didn't pay up. Miller only had $2, so they took that.

On petition of the Supervisors of Saltlick township they have been allowed to add a tax levy not to exceed 10 mills for the benefit of the public roads. The Supervisors say that continued rains this summer have made this necessary, for unless there is more money to repair the roads they may be prosecuted for maintaining a nuisance.

VETS MARCH AGAIN.

Their Numbers Greatly Reduced and Line Not So Long at Saratoga.

GOVERNOR HUGHES IS PRESENT.

Heroes of Civil War Are Reviewed by Commander-in-Chief R. B. Brown. New York, New England and Pennsylvania Send Big Delegations.

Special to The Courier.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 11.—This was the day of the big parade of the National Encampment of the G. A. R., when gray-haired veterans of the Civil War marched again in martial array. The line of march was comparatively short and the number of marchers was now so large as in previous years, the first due to the advanced age of the surviving veterans and the second to the rapid depletion of the ranks by death in the past few years.

But it was a successful and spectacular pageant nevertheless. There were thousands in line and as they swept down tree-lined Broadway the marchers were loudly cheered by the great crowd of spectators along the entire route. The formation was at Woodlawn Park and the route led for a mile and a quarter straight down Broadway. Houses and buildings along the entire line of march were decorated with a great display of flags and bunting. At every available point viewing stands had been built, while wagons stood at interesting streets equipped with chairs. Arrangements had been made for veterans who were physically unable to engage in the parade, or who did not care to do so, to view the procession from a stand erected for their exclusive use.

Forty-two States and two Territories were represented in the column. The local post was given the place of honor, that of escort to R. B. Brown, Commander in Chief of the Grand Army. New York, New England and Pennsylvania were naturally the most largely represented in the column. Ohio had a good representation and also West Virginia, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois. California, Oregon, Washington, Colorado and other States of the far West were represented by one or more posts each.

Arriving at the official reviewing stand Commander in Chief Brown left his place at the head of the procession to review the line. Governor Hughes and other State officials also reviewed the parade. The applause for the veterans, which had been spontaneous and loud along the line of march, became a tempest as the veterans moved past the reviewing stand.

Tomorrow the meetings of the two great organizations, the Grand Army and the Woman's Relief Corps, will begin. Tonight several camp fires are to be held, with noted men among the speakers. The camp fires and regimental and corps reunions will keep up until the encampment comes to an end Saturday.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 11.—With the formal welcome by Gov. Hughes of New York the 41st national Grand Army encampment was opened in the convention hall last evening. Six thousand veterans, members of the Women's Relief corps, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic and other patriotic organizations filled the hall to overflowing. The decorations were elaborate, red, white and blue completely hiding the interior of the hall. Gov. Hughes and the Grand Army officers were given an ovation.

In addition to the governor many speakers of note in the Grand Army made addresses, including Robert Bruce Brown of Zanesville, O., commander-in-chief; James Tanner of Washington, former commander-in-chief; Most Rev. John Ireland, chaplain-in-chief, and United States Senator Macomber of South Dakota.

Mrs. Carrie Sparklin of St. Louis, national president of the Women's Relief Corps, presented to the Grand Army the silver jubilee offering, which was raised by the Women's Relief corps posts in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of the organization. The gift was received by Commander-in-Chief Brown.

Indications point to the election of Charles G. Burton of Nevada, Mo., as commander-in-chief to succeed Commander Brown. There are five candidates out. At caucuses held last night Mr. Burton was indorsed by the departments of New York, Illinois, Ohio and Wisconsin. His election would continue in power the present forces which control the Grand Army. For senior vice-commander it is probable that Lewis E. Griffith of Troy, N. Y., will be chosen and for junior commander C. C. Royce of San Francisco appears likely to be elected.

Tennessee College for Women.

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., Sept. 11. (Special.)—The handsome new building of the Tennessee College for Women was dedicated today, this date also marking the opening of the school year. The building is thoroughly modern in architecture and equipment and was erected by the Baptists of Tennessee at a cost of $60,000.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 11.—Unwilling longer to be the butt of the jokes of his fellow workmen, John F. Effinger, age 50, janitor of the Pennsylvania railroad station, swallowed morphine and died a few hours later in great agony.

New Castle, Pa., Sept. 11.—The trial of the Black Hand suspects has been postponed because of a petition for a change of venue. Attorneys for the defendants claim that the public is so prejudiced against the Black Hand men that theey cannot secure a fair trial here.

Washington, Pa., Sept. 11.—William Agnew of Carnegie, fireman on the Panhandle main line, was held up by five men just after the August pay and relieved of his money and also a good gold watch. He has been greatly surprised to receive the watch back through the mail.

Oil City, Pa., Sept. 11. — James Strail, a teamster, surrendered to the police after having fatally shot his wife. They had been separated and she was earning a living for herself and their son by working in a restaurant. After shooting her Strail attempted to kick her.

Kittanning, Pa., Sept. 11.—Burgess Hays and Policeman Hill were each fined $3 and costs before Justice of the Peace Miller for disorderly conduct. Burgess Hays kicked a fighting dog which had been chewing another dog in the street. Burgess Hays requested that warrants be sworn out for the arrest of himself and Hill.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 11.—Wet rails cost the life of one man and resulted in the serious injury of several other persons at Nazareth near here. A car of the Lehigh Valley Transit company jumped the track at a curve and upset, crushing John D. Owens, a Bethlehem photographer, to death and seriously injuring five others.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 11.—What was supposed to be the last will of Joseph Lillibridge, a wealthy coal land owner of Blakely, has been set aside by Judge Sando, the contestants being two sisters of the deceased. His widow was the sole legatee under the will, the estate being valued at $500,000. The contestants claimed the decedent was of unsound mind, memory and understanding and that undue influence was brought to bear on him.

Warren, O., Sept. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. George Hayes, who reside five miles north of this city, are lying at the point of death as a result of an attempt on their lives. Mr. Hayes saw a paper sticking out of the rural mail box in front of the house and on investigating discovered a bottle wrapped in manila paper and labeled "rye whisky." He took it to the house and after taking a drink treated his wife. Soon both became ill. Doctors found the couple having every sign of strychnine poisoning and little hope for their recovery is given.

Washington, Pa., Sept. 11.—Henry Perry, a mill worker, was so brutally hazed at the hands of 50 employes of the Tyler Tube & Pipe company that there is little hope for his recovery. It was Perry's first turn at the mill. At lunch hour he was seized by a couple of mill men and made fast to a crane. Then he was swung above a furnace and when the cords burned through his unconscious form fell to the floor, right in front of the furnace, where his flesh was scorched and his clothing charred. The hazers have left town to escape arrest.

Taylor Distrusts Promises.

Indianapolis, Sept. 11.—Former Gov. Taylor has been informed that Circuit Judge Stout at Frankfort, Ky., had entered an order suspending the warrant for his arrest and promising immunity from arrest if he would return to Kentucky. Taylor was inclined to be skeptical. He said: "The suspension of the warrant could be revoked at any time. It would afford no real immunity."

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Is in Session Now at Norfolk, Va., to Discuss Campaign.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—Plans for taking up the warfare against the liquor traffic with renewed vigor are being discussed at the Superintendents' and Workers' Conference of the American Anti-Saloon League, which began in this city today. The members are jubilant over the record of the past 12 months, which has seen more States, cities and smaller localities throughout the country go "dry" than probably any other similar period in the history of the prohibition movement.

The conference of the superintendents and workers is to be followed next week by the national meeting of the Anti-Saloon League. Among the eminent speakers scheduled for the national meeting are Governor Glenn of North Carolina, Governor Hanley of Indiana and Senator Carmack of Tennessee.

BE AMBITIOUS.

Don't Wait for Something to Turn Up. Turn It Up Yourself.

Too many young men settle down in a rut, always hoping, like Mr. Micawber, that something will "turn up" that will improve their condition. The successful man doesn't wait for things to happen. He saves his money until he has a little capital, and then, without waiting for something to "turn up," he goes out and turns something up for himself. It's a good idea, boys, to save your money and get out of a rut. The First National Bank of Connellsville helps you by allowing 4 per cent. on your savings and by assisting you in every proper way when you are ready to go in business for yourself. It cordially invites the accounts of young men.

Call on the college any time for complete information, or better still, enter any evening that school is in session.

SURGEONS MEET.

Association of Those of the Seaboard Air Line Railway at Norfolk.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—A large number of eminent medical men representing all of the Southeastern States were in attendance today at the opening of the fifth annual meeting of the Association of Seaboard Air Line Railway Surgeons. President W. A. Monroe of Sanford, N. C., called the gathering to order in the Auditorium at the Jamestown Exposition.

The sessions are to continue two days and will be devoted almost wholly to the reading and discussion of papers on professional topics.

Massachusetts Firemen.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—Fall River extended a welcome today to the members of the Massachusetts State Firemen's Association, who began their annual convention and will be in session until Friday. Considerable business is to be transacted, including the election of officers for the year. Chief W. C. Davol of this city is spoken of for the presidency of the association.

Delay on John Smith Monument.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—This was the date, originally set for the unveiling of the monument to Captain John Smith, being erected on Jamestown Island by the United States government. It has been found necessary to postpone the event, however, because of the failure of the contractors to complete the monument on time.

Work Shoes

All sorts are here, variously adapted from the lightest to the heaviest labor. We have all kinds at all prices, that wear like iron. Ordinary shape shoes of the heaviest calf procurable; they have good looks, but they are mighty durable. Rubber boots a specialty.

JOHN IRWIN.

CARRY OUT SUICIDE PACT

Child Sweethearts, Failing in Attempt to Marry, Kill Themselves.

Ashland, Ky., Sept. 11.—As the result of parental objection and a suicide pact, little Isabelle Zetron and her sweetheart, Tommy Hales, are lying in two white caskets at the homes of their parents near York in Greenup county.

Tommy and Isabelle had been reared on adjoining farms. They had formed an attachment that was apparently deeper than their parents suspected, for a few weeks ago they ran away from home and attempted to get married at the county seat, but were refused on account of their youth, neither being 16 years old.

Their parents learned of the escapade and refused to allow Tommy to see Isabelle again. But Tommy managed to see his child sweetheart again, and it is alleged gave her a bottle of carbolic acid. Both agreed to take it at the same time if another appeal failed. The parents refused and the children ended their lives. In the girl's room was found a note telling the whole pitiful story.

JURY ALL LAWYERS

After Hearing Case They Announce Verdict in 15 Minutes.

Aurora, Ill., Sept. 11.—Twelve attorneys, one of them the only woman practitioner in the county, composed a jury in the Kane county circuit court that heard a suit brought by Rudolph Brudinak of Chicago against the H. K. Fairbank Canning company, also of Chicago.

Judge Wills of the Northern Illinois district of the appellate court presided in the unusual case. The plaintiff in the suit lost an arm while in the employ of the company and after a 15-minute trial the jury returned a verdict in his favor of $1,275, the money being paid him instantly following the finding of the verdict.

FEATHERMAN & SUMBERG,

Don't You Like This Town?

You live here. Your business interests are here. Your home is here.

You are reading a Mail Order Catalogue. That indicates that you are not spending your money in this town. You are spending it with strangers in a big city. That city has no use for this town except to get your money.

This town has use for your money. If spent here, your money will help to build up the town. It will help to build up your own business.

In the long run more of your money will come back to you if you spend it at home than if you send it to Chicago or some other large city. You spend a dollar with Smith, up the street. Smith spends it with Brown, around the corner. Brown is just as likely to spend it with you as with anybody else. Did you ever think of that?

All of us have to spend money. There is an art in spending it where it will do the most good. If spent so that it will circulate around this town and community, it will help this town and community. You belong to this town and community. Therefore it will help you. Isn't that good logic?

Suppose you think it over next time you pick up the Mail Order Catalogue.

NEW WAR BALLOON TESTED

First of Its Kind Built in England Comes Up to Expectations

Farnborough Eng Sept. 11—The first military dirigible balloon built in this country has made two trial trips and with the exception of a slight hitch caused by the breaking of a belt in the machinery that drove the cooling fan the airship appears to have answered all the expectations of its inventors

The recent successes of French and German army airships have awakened a great degree of interest in England on the subject of aerostatics Reports of the trials to be held leaked out and the military authorities found themselves obliged to carry out the trials in the presence of several hundred persons Among the crowd were representatives of a number of foreign nations intent upon gleaning all possible information on the striking and novel points of the balloon s construction

The English airship proved to be easily handled able to travel with and against the wind and, most important of all capable of being steered It is a sausage shaped balloon about 100 feet long by 30 feet in diameter It has a lifting capacity of about one ton which after deducting the weight of the car engines and other apparatus permits the carriage of a crew of three men of the average weight The car is shaped like a boat and built of aluminum and canvas

TURNS PISTOL ON CAPTOR

Burglar, Shot at Twice, Grabs Revolver and Kills Woman

Norfolk, Va., Sept 11—Mrs Mary Lawless Rorschach wife of Lieut Frank Rorschach U S N, was murdered at her home Park View Portsmouth by an unknown burglar She was shot through the heart with her own pistol taken from her hand by the burglar after she had fired twice upon him through an open door leading into the kitchen where he was cornered

The murderer dropped the pistol as he fled from the house Blood hounds secured a scent which was soon lost and the hounds have since been unable to pick up the trail

The Rorschach home was immediately in the rear of the naval hospital in Portsmouth and near a lumber mill to which negroes frequently pass A boy who lives nearby saw a negro shortly after the tragedy running rapidly by his home

Gov Swanson has offered a reward of $200 for the capture of the murderer or Coroner Holliday found that the bullet had penetrated Mrs Rorschach s heart

THE STORE OF QUALITY
Connellsville Pa.

Four-Hour Embroidery Sale,
Friday from 2 to 6 P. M.

5,000 Yards

Embroidery ranging in widths from 6 inches up to 22 inches, and sold formerly for 25c to 40c yard, on sale

Friday Afternoon from 2 to 6 P. M., at 10c Per Yard.

A few weeks ago we had a sale of embroidery at the same price and it lasted but a few minutes, because the amount was limited. But for this sale we have about 5,000 yards, and will run the sale for 4 hours. We think we have enough to supply the demands for that time. But we would advise you to come early, that you may get best selections. Positively this is the greatest bargain we have offered you.

Our Mr. M. H. Feldstein was fortunate upon his Eastern trip in securing this amount of embroidery that he could sell it at this remarkably low price. So be on hands and get your share while it lasts.

WEDNESDAY EVE., SEPT. 11, 1907.

HUNTING THE OCTOPUS.

All the world is corporation hunting now, and in the excitement of the chase the rights of the stockholders have been forgotten In the name of regulation, Pennsylvania and other States have passed laws arbitrarily fixing the rate of passenger service at two cents per mile with a cheerful disregard of the character and cost of the service The law has been declared unconstitutional by the Common Pleas Courts of Philadelphia The decision is not a surprise to intelligent men It is plain that the act is not only arbitrary, but also confiscatory if the statements of the railway companies are to be credited

As an act of legitimate regulation, the law utterly fails when it fixes one rate for all manner of service on all manner of railroads The Interstate Commerce Commission established at Washington under authority of that clause of the Federal Constitution which confers upon the Congress power to regulate commerce between States, has never presumed to fix a flat rate for passenger service Such action would be directly contrary to the spirit of the interstate commerce laws which have for their object the maintenance of reasonable rates in all cases The object is never to force the railroads to carry business at a loss, but to require them to be reasonable in their charges and undiscriminating in making them

The States had better repeal their two-cent State laws as fast as they can and model their railroad policies after those of the Federal Government The railroads are common carriers They should be compelled to do their business properly and honestly They should not be permitted to charge excessive rates, nor to have different rates for different people nor to discriminate in service, neither should they be compelled to carry freight or passengers or any kind of business whatever at rates that will not yield a reasonable profit on their investment The stockholder is entitled to just as much protection as the passenger or the shipper

The storm of popular indignation which resulted in the passage of the two-cent rate bill was brought upon the railroads by their own mismanagement Rebating and discrimination ran riot The public had no rights which the average railroad official felt bound to respect An investigation showed that in the majority of cases in Western Pennsylvania coal shippers had no guarantee of car supply unless the immediate official and his superiors had stock in the mine It was arrogant buccaneering like this that provoked the public indignation and bred such retaliation as was expressed in the two-cent bill

Public service corporations should never discriminate The railroads of Pennsylvania violated this rule with impunity Rebates in rates and favoritism in service were the rule. Honest men were driven out of business in consequence and many of them were ruined. This was the work of the managers rather than of the stockholders. The rank and-file of the latter had as little to say as the shippers. The railroads were run largely in the private interest of the officials and their friends It was gigantic graft.

The two-cent bill was a retaliatory measure, not an act of proper and lawful regulation The Philadelphia courts have pointed the way to a safer and saner condition If the next Legislature is blessed in its membership with more intelligence and patriotism and less stupidity and clownishness we may hope for a wiser treatment of the railroad question

The railroads should have fair treatment. They should be permitted to charge fair rates for their service and here is a suggestion for the Solons

THE RAILROADS SHOULD BE REQUIRED TO PAY A FAIR SHARE OF TAXATION.

THE BLUE LAWS AND THE TIMES.

A prominent and active member of a leading Christian church of Connellsville sends us the following for publication

If the wheat harvest comes in the fall time when will we have winter?

If a man is not allowed to quench his thirst on the so called Sabbath day with a glass of soda fizz why should he be permitted to pay a nickel for a trolley ride?

If every man is entitled to one day's rest in seven why are the people who live in certain localities so annoyed all through the so called Sabbath day that is is impossible for them to either converse read or sleep?

If we have laws why not the local officers enforce them without the aid of others?

Why do different sects of religious people hire outsiders to do their playing and singing on the so called Sabbath day and pay them for it?

If a man loves his neighbor as he does himself will he persecute that neighbor because he is poor and weak and cannot defend himself like the large corporations can?

The automobile has in a large degree knocked the fool killer out of his job

This communication illustrates the difficulty in trying to reconcile the old Blue Laws with modern conditions When these laws were passed governing the Sabbath Day in Pennsylvania there were no railroads, no trolleys, no automobiles, no electric light or power, no telegraphs or telephones, few printing presses, few books and few newspapers, no coke works and very few industries of any character. There were no soda fountains, nor any necessity for them The country and the town abounded with pure water in the running streams the springs and the wells, and the water was as free as it was pure There were few stores and little necessity for keeping any of them open The Blue Laws worked without friction and were accepted without objection.

As public conveniences multiplied and the people came to depend upon them in their daily life as the communities grow in size and such dependence became actually necessary, custom relaxed the Sunday laws to meet the conditions Custom makes the law. The laws remain on the statute books, but they have been dead letters The Sabbath observance promoters would revive them and so far as it is necessary to insure a decent and orderly Sabbath it is proper to enforce them, but it should be remembered that we are not living in the past but in the present

The indignant citizens who want the State Capitol grafters sent to the Penitentiary at once will have to curb their hot vengeance and permit the law to take its due and orderly course The leaden heel of Justice is proverbial The magnitude of the issue requires preparation Give the Attorney General time The rascals will get the time after he is done with them

The Grand Army line is getting shorter as the years pass by Pension legislation is no longer an issue

Satisfied With the Explanation of Chairman Wallace

Editor Courier —I am glad our worthy townsman B P Wallace chairman of the Merchants Association has been induced by my communication and the comments thereon by the esteemed editor of the Courier to speak and tell us for just what $7 000 contribution contemplated is to be spent We do not know whether we were too hasty in our conclusion in taking it for granted that $7 000 was to be spent totally in the matter and manner of the celebration or whether our friends the Merchants Association and the public press were lax in informing us the purpose for which it was to be collected Anyway we got the impression as we stated it yesterday

We are glad to know at this juncture and at this propitious time from the communication of Mr Wallace that part of the money to be spent half of it to pay the legal counsel that so successfully brought the suit to the long looked for consummation It bespeaks much care foresight energy and public spirit to become personally responsible for that amount of money to drive a suit the issue of which was in darkness The Association is to be commended by the good people of Connellsville New Haven and contiguous territory for the manly course and patriotic part they have played in the freeing of the bridge from burdensome toll under which people have been chafing for these many years They have merited the gratitude of this community and I think they have it.

As far as serving on the auditing committee is concerned since we understand we have implicit faith in the integrity of the association to use the money in the way pointed out

Doubtless many will contribute more readily now since we know for what the money is to be used Clearness of statement as to just what private money for public use is to be specially used is one of the virtues newspaperdom and parties soliciting therefor should cultivate

We have done

New Cunarder Lusitania Is Crossing Atlantic at Speed of 30 Miles an Hour.

FIRST DAY'S RUN, 561 MILES

But Delay Was Caused by Fog Part of Distance—She Reports Progress by Wireless to Her Anxious British Owners.

Queenstown, Sept. 11.—The steamer Haverford from Philadelphia reports that she passed the Lusitania at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning and the Lucania three and one-half hours later. It is calculated that if the Lusitania continues this same ratio of speed she will reach New York between 23 and 24 hours ahead of the Lucania.

The Cunard company has received a wireless message from the Lusitania stating that the vessel ran 561 knots from Daunt Rock lightship to Monday noon. As the Lusitania passed Daunt Rock at 12:10 p. m., this position shows she is traveling at the rate of 25½ knots an hour.

New York, Sept. 11. — That the epoch-making Lusitania is ploughing the mid-Atlantic at a clip of 25 2-3 knots an hour, occasionally perhaps spurting to a 26-knot speed, is the calculation based on press cable reports from London. Wireless communication with the great turbine steamer is hourly expected by the local agents of the Cunard lines. This will come by way of Cape Race and under favorable conditions should be received not later than today. Communication several hundred miles east of Cape Race is common and it is said the Lusitania had hoped by the use of particularly powerful apparatus to pick up the Newfoundland wireless station at a distance of 1,000 miles or while still nearly 2,000 miles from New York.

The owner's agents received no word from the Lusitania, but press cablegrams from London said that the challenger for the trans-Atlantic record had reported a run of 561 miles during her first 24 hours out from Queenstown. When it is recalled that during the first nine hours from Daunt Rock the Lusitania because of fog was enabled to make but 180 miles it is apparent that the other 381 miles reported was covered at a rate better than 25 knots an hour. It is believed that this higher speed is maintained at this time.

The Lusitania is looked for at Sandy Hook next Thursday night if she makes the schedule she will have wiped out all records. She must reach Sandy Hook bar by 2 p. m. Friday to beat the Lucania's record. That she will do this is a foregone conclusion.

But the breaking of the Cunard record is not the sole ambition of the Lusitania. The record of the Deutschland of the Hamburg-American line is what the Lusitania is really after, and to beat this by one hour she must make the trip in five days—that is, reach Sandy Hook at 7:10 o'clock (New York time) Friday morning. The Deutschland's record from Cherbourg to New York is 5 days 11 hours and 54 minutes. Without allowing for the disadvantage of the more southerly route the trip from Cherbourg westward is about 236 miles longer than the Lusitania's voyage from Queenstown to New York. To offset this the Lusitania must allow the Deutschland approximately 11 hours. Accordingly the British vessel must do her trans-Atlantic record-smashing before 8 o'clock Friday morning and this her owners confidently expect her to do.

GETTING EVIDENCE READY

Attorney General Todd Moves With Caution Against Grafters.

Harrisburg, Sept. 11.—"We are still sawing wood, to use a common expression," said Attorney General Todd at the close of a conference with the lawyers who will be associated with him in the trial of the capitol graft cases.

"The preparation of these cases involves a great amount of detail work, which is now being done by Mr. Scarlet, Deputy Attorney General Cunningham and Senator Fox. Until they have finished the work they are now doing it will not be decided when and against whom we shall proceed."

Mr. Todd takes the position that the statutes of limitation in these transactions do not become effective until next May.

James Scarlet and his associates have been working for more than a week; taking a brief of the testimony taken by the investigation commission and until they have finished this work the attorney general will not be ready to say how many of the 18 persons and firms mentioned by the investigators in their report shall be prosecuted.

Brave Rescuer Loses Life.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 11.—In trying to rescue two fellow workmen from a tank filled with hydrogen sulphide gas at the Buffalo Chemical works Arthur J. Sweeney was overcome and died. William Sweeney, his son, in an attempt to rescue the father, was overcome and was removed to a hospital, where he was still unconscious at a late hour. The two men who were in the tank at first were John Kiley and William Clahan. When finally taken out they were both unconscious and may die.

OHIO DAY.

Buckeye Folks Having Big Time at Jamestown Today.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—A host of visitors from the Buckeye State took possession of the Jamestown Exposition today and helped to make the celebration of Ohio Day one of the most successful of the special days observed at the big fair to date. Governor Andrew L. Harris was on hand and he and Judson Harmon of Cincinnati were the principal speakers at the formal exercises held in the Exposition Auditorium.

The visitors were officially welcomed by Governor Swanson of Virginia and President Tucker of the Exposition. Braxton Campbell, President of the Ohio State Commission, presided and there was an interesting program of music. In the afternoon there was a military parade which was reviewed by Governor Harris, General Fred Grant, Admiral Harrington and other distinguished persons. Open house was kept at the Ohio building throughout the day, and the number of visitors who registered was the largest since the opening.

INTEREST IN FIGHT.

Hyland and Murphy in Lightweight Mill at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—(Special.)—Tonight's bout between Dick Hyland and Tommy Murphy is attracting great attention in sporting circles, as it is expected to be one of the most interesting ring events to be pulled off in Philadelphia for some time. Though limited to six rounds, the bout is expected to put the winner in line for a fight for the lightweight championship, and for this reason both fighters are expected to do their best.

The best critics of the sport seem inclined to favor Hyland's chances, as he is regarded as the equal of Murphy in cleverness and a bit more aggressive.

NEGRO BROKER.

First Colored Firm in Wall Street to Open Today.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(Special.) The first negro brokerage firm in the Wall Street district opened for business today in handsome offices at 35 Broad street. The head of the firm is Robert W. Taylor, who for a number of years has been financial secretary of the Tuskegee Institute.

Mr. Taylor says he has been prompted to go into the brokerage business by the success which has attended realty companies, mercantile enterprises and other business enterprises which of late years have been run by negroes in the interest of their race.

THE AUTO SLAUGHTER

Was Viewed by Scottdale Men and They Say It Was Most Exciting.

WAS NOT A PLEASANT SIGHT.

No Provision Made for an Accident and No Physician There—Westmoreland County Fair Opened Auspiciously Yesterday—John Louden's Mistake.

SCOTTDALE, Sept. 11.— A. S. Livingood and William White were at the automobile races at Brunot's Island on Monday and saw Rex Reinersten crushed to death and his mechanic, Bastain injured in the first smashup, and half an hour later Walter Christie thrown from his big car at the same spot. They say it was as exciting slaughter as they ever expect to see, and a memory that will linger unpleasantly. There was no care apparently for the slaughter, no provision for physicians even to meet such an accident, as could hardly have been avoided under speed mania that exhibited itself, in a clip of 100 miles an hour. Clyde Overholt with C. A. Collier, driver, of Scottdale, was a winner in the third event, three miles for a fully equipped touring car, costing $5000 or less. He took second place in this event. All the races were won with a prototype of his car, the Stevens-Duryea. The time was 3.43.

The funeral of Rev. J. P. Cowling, former pastor of the United Brethren church of Scottdale, who died from stomach trouble at McKeesport, on Monday, will be held at that city and the body brought here on Friday. Mrs. Cowling is in England and is not expected to sail from there until October 4, when she will learn the full details of her husband's sudden death.

Walnut avenue seems to be the "Piko" for the loose cows in town, a telephone report being sent in Tuesday afternoon that a cow was eating all the vines off the houses along there and would soon reach the second story if her appetite did not give out. An officer placed the cow under arrest and led her to May's livery barn. There being no untron provided by the authorities for the pound she was not searched. It was reported that she had half a gallon of milk concealed on her person. The owner with a halter over his arm, followed closely and took her away before the report could be verified.

The Westmoreland County Fair opened at Youngwood with many Scottdale people present on Tuesday. Edward Werkman, the Hawkeye gardener, who is a director at this end of the county for the fair, is very much pleased over the propitious manner in which the annual exhibit opened, even the weather being much more decent there than in Scottdale, in which latter place the rain came down wastefully and with a severe electrical disturbance. Mr. Werkman says that the poultry show is unexcelled this year, while the bow wows are there in great numbers. For the live stock this is quite a banner year. Sixteen new stalls had to be built on Tuesday to accommodate the horses, cattle, sheep and swine that will be boarders during the fair. Among recent Scottdale exhibitors in fancy work and such things of art are included Mrs. Frank Gruzier, Mrs. C. D. Reid, Mrs. N. L. K. Kline and others.

If John Louden of New Haven who tried to get on a freight train here on Monday evening had listened to the shouts of H. V. Beckley he would have been unhurt. Louden tried to grab the handholds, failed and fell by the side of the track, when Beckley yelled at him to lie still. Instead he turned over and got his leg across the rail, when a wheel took his foot off. The man turned again and his other leg was over the rail in such a way that the following truck would have cut it off near the body, when Mr. Beckley and Dixie Koch dragged him out of further danger.

Quite a bunch of Scottdale people will wend their way to Connellsville today on business. Buffalo Bill's big wild west show is also in Connellsville. With the county fair at Youngwood there is quite a pulling in opposite directions of those who love amusements.

Secretary W. I. Cottom of the East Huntingdon Township School Board was at Alverton on Tuesday evening attending a meeting of the Board. East Huntingdon will not benefit greatly from the minimum salary law, having but three schools which do not come up to the law, the township being one believing in paying good wages and having experienced teachers.

Rev. A. J. Ashe, a former pastor here, and now pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Connellsville, was chatting with old time friends here yesterday.

Oysters! Oysters! Blue points and Rockaways on half shell; lobsters, soft and hard shell crabs; also deviled crabs, received daily at Clark's European Restaurant.

Colored Baptist Meet.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 11.—(Special.)—The national convention of the colored Baptist church opened here today and will remain in session through the rest of this week. The convention is the first that the denomination has held in several years and it is expected the attendance will exceed 5,000 delegates and visitors from all over the country.

The Outlook for Fall.

An Optomistic View of the Furniture, Carpet and Rug Trade.

We began the Autumn season with pleasurable anticipation and no misgivings.

The country is solidly prosperous.

Wages are good and the people are happy.

We are promised a continuance of Rooseveltism and there are no indications of squalls.

Acting upon these conditions and beliefs we have laid in the greatest stock of fine merchandise in our career and it comes from the best houses in the world.

So great is the improvement in methods and quality that every branch of this house is correspondingly better than it was a year ago.

This is due to that unfailing American Progress which never sleeps or halts and if you will take the trouble to call and see our display you will secure ample evidence of the truth of what we say.

We shall continue our popular policy of extending every possible credit accommodation to every family desiring it and it gives us a real pleasure to picture in advance the many homes that will be made comfortable this coming season through the medium of "the Aaron way" of selling furniture, carpets, rugs and household furnishings.

If you contemplate fixing up a Little Home, come and talk it over with us, whether you expect to spend $100 or $2,000, or any amount "in between."

THE SHIP'S BELL.

It Is Sounded at Half Hour Intervals Day and Night.

The ship's bell is the mariner's clock. The nautical day begins and ends at noon, when eight bells is struck. The bell is struck half hourly, day and night, one stroke being added for each half hour until eight is reached, when the count begins at one bell.

In the United States navy the ship's bell hangs usually under the forecastle, or just forward of the foremast. The captain's orderly keeps the time and reports to the officer of the deck the hour in terms of "bells." The officer of the deck then bids the messenger of the watch strike the bell. There is somewhat more formality at eight bells than at other times, for then the hour is reported to the captain and the bell not struck until he has said, "Make it so." Here is the routine on board a man-of-war at 8 o'clock in the morning: The orderly first says to the officer of the deck, "Eight bells, sir." The officer of the deck replies, "Report to the captain eight bells and chronometers wound." The orderly then goes to the captain and says, "Eight bells and the chronometers wound, sir." The captain replies, "Very well; make it so." The orderly goes to the officer of the deck and says, "Make it so, sir." The officer of the deck says to the messenger of the watch, "Strike eight bells," and if everybody has been prompt the messenger strikes eight bells at exactly 8 a. m.

Old French Dial Ring.

"A dial ring," said the curio dealer. "A French dial ring of the eighteenth century. You can tell the time with it."

The ring of gold was beautifully chased, and where the stone sparkles usually there was set a tiny sundial.

"All you have to do," said the dealer, "is to stand in the right way, holding the dial so that the sun strikes it, and a tiny shadow will tell you the hour. Such a ring," he concluded, "is more a curio than an accurate timepiece. It is only good in the locality it is made for, and even there unless it is set toward the right point of the compass, it will be several hours out of the way."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

It Depends.

Dr. Johnson was once consulted by an old lady on the degree of wickedness to be attached to her son's robbing an orchard. "Madam," said Johnson, "it all depends upon the weight of the boy. I remember my schoolfellow, Davy Garrick, who was always a little fellow, robbing a dozen orchards with impunity, but the very first time I climbed up an apple tree—for I was always a heavy boy—the bough broke with me, and it was called a judgment."

IN FLOWING GREEK ROBE

Bar Harbor, Maine, Sept. 11.—Miss Eva Courtlandt Palmer of New York was married at Brookend, the cottage of her mother, Mrs. Robert Abbe, to Angelo Sikellianus, a Greek poet.

The wedding was made picturesque by the costume of the bride, who, though an American girl, wore a classic Greek tunic of purple and white and jeweled sandals beneath bare feet, while her hair, which reached to the floor, was loosely braided and crowned with a Greek fillet. This is a costume she has adopted for permanent use, believing it to be the most healthful. The bridegroom also appeared in native costume. The couple will go to Greece to live after the honeymoon.

Printers Are Reinstated.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—Twenty union printers have started to work at cases which they have not touched for more than two years in the composing rooms of the Fairhorn Printing company. The typesetters were involved in one of the longest strikes on record in Chicago, which ended when the firm conceded the 8-hour day and the closed shop. On August 26, 1905, the 20 union employes walked out.

DEVELOPMENT IS PHENOMENAL.

A. C. Speyer Talks of the Great Coke Industry During the Past Year.

COKE NOW BEING EXPORTED.

Demand is Increasing Daily and the Connellsville Brand Now Goes to Every Port Where It is In Great Demand — Advocates Fair Market Prices.

A. C. Speyer, general manager of the sales department of the Moreland Coke Company, which controls the output of eight plants in the Connellsville district and six in West Virginia, has made some careful observations of the situation. On the subject he said:

"The great activity in the coke field cannot pass by unnoticed. During the past year we have seen unparalleled prices paid for coal suitable for coke making purposes, and in spite of the keenly high rate for the raw product, the operators have made excellent returns on the amounts invested and have continued to reinvest their money in the development of new fields and in rejuvenation of old operations that formerly had been abandoned, but are now profit makers.

"Going no further back than 12 months from this date, I would sum up all in one word, phenomenal.

"One year ago the coke makers feared the possibility of an over production breaking the market, but they have now seen hundreds of new ovens placed in operation with no other effect than a gradual strong demand for the well prepared products.

"From the far Western States of Arizona and New Mexico the smelting companies have sent their fuel agents into the Connellsville territory to purchase coke; from our sister republic, Mexico, have come buyers; our products are in strong demand in California and Idaho; Canada has written in her law books that no duty is to be placed on coke, as that country needs and must have it at any cost; steamers are chartered to transport coke in immense cargoes to Cuba, Brazil and parts of Chile; the Panama engineers have specified Northern coke; the Eastern Hemisphere is threatened with an invasion; as successful bids have been made by Eastern houses for export coke and vessels are now bound for Europe with the Connellsville and Northern West Virginia silvery product.

"By this I do not mean to predict high prices. In fact, I do not believe exorbitant figures are good for the country, as when the price of raw material is too high the users cannot run their plants to advantage and necessarily are forced to shut down.

"I am convinced that with judicious care and by careful management, fair prices can be maintained and a fair profit is all the operators expect. Temporary reactions, of course, will occur, but these are to be expected, and are a protection against wild speculation or injudicious risks.

"If a price of from $2.25 to $2.50 for good standard furnace coke and from $2.75 to $3 for god foundry coke can be maintained, then we will make fair profits and our customers can use the products advantageously. We much prefer the steady business at fair prices to the widely fluctuating market at extremely high prices one day and low the next month or week. In this manner the operators are emulating the example of the Steel Corporation, taking good business at fair prices, with reliable patrons. The wholesalers in a measure have been the backbone of our market, as the product in their hands is better handled and is more controlled. They practically maintain and hold the market, and nearly three-quarters of the product is in their hands. They make the selling prices and are better able to hold the rate at steady or even figures than the operators, who are not in touch with the markets, but are busy with construction.

"In summing up the selling situation, the outlook is decidedly promising for steady business, all the producers being sold well ahead, buying is done daily in fair quantities. Railroad movement is better this year than last, and the general tendency is to hold the present position.

"As to development, new fields have been opened during the past year. The Ligonier Valley, long considered as a barren farming country, has turned out to be a flourishing center of the coal and coke industry. The Old Colony Coal & Coke Company was the pioneer in this field two years ago, but there are now in it the W. P. Snyder Shenango operation, the Marietta-Connellsville plant and two or three others are contemplated."

BUILDING OVENS.

Mt. Pleasant Coke Company Building 300 in Unity Township.

The Mt. Pleasant Coal & Coke Company is erecting 300 new ovens in Unity township which it is expected to fire in October. The coal to be operated is under the Klintz and neighboring farms. J. U. Kuhns and W. A. Wilson of Greensburg are the controlling stockholders in the Mt. Pleasant company.

This company has also closed a deal with the Thaw estate by which a lease is secured on 1,000 acres.

COAL SUIT ANSWERS.

Hobiltzell Tells His Side of Somerset Coal Land Deal.

An answer was filed by Oliver Hobiltzell in Circuit Court No. 2, Baltimore, Saturday, to the suit of Harry A. Parr, who claims he is entitled to two-thirds of the profits received from the sale of coal lands in Somerset county, Pa. Mr. Hobiltzell denies this and all other material allegations contained in the bill and declares Mr. Parr has been overpaid his one-third share of the profits and is indebted to Mr. Hobiltzell.

The answer states that James J. Hobiltzell and Oliver Hobiltzell were offered three options on 42,836 acres of coal land in Somreset county, Pa., by M. W. Keim of Johnstown, Cambria county, in 1899. At the prices named in the three options the coal lands would have cost $813,485. Mr. Parr, it is alleged, was asked by Mr. Hobiltzell to become a party to the purchase and to furnish what money would be needed from time to time. The bill states that he was to receive one-third of the profits. Mr. Hobiltzell later agreed to buy under the same agreement 62,618 acres more of coal land in Somerset county at a total cost of $1,193,109. Only 53,393 acres of this tract were acquired, owing the failure of Mr. Parr to furnish his share of the money, the bill states. All of the coal land acquired with the exception of 6,806 acres, was sold, and of the proceeds of the sale Mr. Parr, the bill states, is entitled to one-third subject to liens of Mr. Hobiltzell to cover advances to Mr. Parr for taxes and other charges.

Mr. Parr, it is stated, advanced $122,000. Mr. Hobiltzell says he paid him $134,000 from June 19, 1902, until November 28, 1905. He declares Mr. Parr owes him $14,610 upon an account between them known as the "mixing account." The aggregate credits, it is asserted, foot up $242,000, and the aggregate debits $329,000, or $343,610 by adding the money due on the "mixing account."

BLOW AT 2-CENT FARE

Philadelphia County Enjoined From Enforcing Law Against P. R. R.

DECLARED UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Other Railroads Not Mentioned in Decision and Doubt Exists as to Their Status Under It—P. R. R.'s Charter Different.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—The Philadelphia common pleas court has decided that the Dunsmore 2-cent-a-mile bill, passed at the last session of the legislature, is unconstitutional.

In summing up their reasons for declaring the act unconstitutional Judges Wilson and Audenried say:

"Upon the whole case we are of opinion that although with respect to its title and other matters of form no valid objection to the act of April 5, 1907, exists, its operation so far as it relates to the Pennsylvania Railroad company is objectionable on constitutional grounds for the following reasons:

"1. As a regulation by the legislature of the rates of fare for passengers on the lines constructed by the plaintiff under the act of April 13, 1846, between Harrisburg and Pittsburg and between Pittsburg and Erie the act violates an existing contract between the plaintiff and the commonwealth and so contravenes article 1, section 10, of the constitution of the United States.

"2. As a regulation of the plaintiff's intrastate passenger business in its entirety the act under existing circumstances is unreasonable and confiscatory, and by depriving the plaintiff of its property without due process of law violates amendment XIV of the constitution of the United States.

"3. Since the taking from the plaintiff of the profitable use of its property invested in the intrastate passenger business may be regarded as a taking of that property for public purposes and since no just compensation is made therefor the act violates article 1, section 10, of the constitution of Pennsylvania.

"4. Viewed as an alteration or revocation of the plaintiff's franchise to establish and enforce over the lines of roads that are now operated by it and that have been leased or otherwise acquired by it since May 2, 1855, such rates as within the maxima fixed by the second proviso of section 31 of the act of April 13, 1846, its president and directors may deem reasonable, the act under consideration violates article 16, section 10, of the constitution of Pennsylvania because it does injustice to the corporators of the Pennsylvania Railroad company by establishing so low a maximum rate of fare for the carriage of passengers as to render that branch of the plaintiff's business unremunerative, but providing no compensation for the loss thereby occasioned.

"We accordingly adjudge that the act of April 5, 1907, cannot be enforced so far as concerns the Pennsylvania Railroad company and that the county of Philadelphia should be restrained from demanding fines and attempting by action to collect them if the maximum which that act attempts to establish be disregarded by the plaintiff."

Besmirched Corporation Officials In the Minority.

By President ROBERT MATHER of the Rock Island Railroad.

THE great commercial enterprises of today are ALMOST EXCLUSIVELY conducted by corporations. The corporation presents manifest and admitted advantages for the development of the industrial opportunities, especially in making EFFECTIVE the capital of scattered individuals, who but for this agency of co-operation would not readily be brought in united effort.

But concerning the methods of organization, of management and of control of some of our great corporations facts of late have been revealed that have SHOCKED THE CONSCIENCE AND STIRRED THE ANGER OF THE PEOPLE.

Every form of crime conceivable of commission by or through or against a corporation has been displayed in proof—enormous overcapitalization of companies whose shares would be sold to the public at fictitious prices under cover of respectable names; gross discrimination by common carriers and consequent oppression of competitors by the favorite shippers; CRIMINAL MISUSE of the trust funds of great life insurance companies for the private benefit of individuals; the use of the favors and power of great railroad corporations for the private gain of the officer wielding the power; THE MAKING OF PRIVATE PROFIT BY TRUSTEES for the stockholders in their dealings with the securities and property of the corporation.

And with the commission of each of these offenses there have been connected some of the GREATEST NAMES in the world of industry and finance. The sensationalist and demagogue would have us believe that the whole commercial fiber is rotten.

I make no apology for the crimes disclosed in the investigations, and I hold no brief for the culprits there discovered. But I have not on account of these disclosures lost my faith in my fellow man.

THE FACTS THAT HAVE BEEN MADE KNOWN ARE SENSATIONAL AND BAD ENOUGH IN ALL CONSCIENCE, BUT THEY TOUCH ONLY THE EDGE OF THE FIELD OF CORPORATE ACTIVITY AND SCIRCH BUT A SPOT OF ITS BROAD EXPANSE. THE NUMBERS OF THE DISHONORED YOU MAY COUNT ON YOUR FINGERS, BUT THEIR NAME IS LEGION WHOSE LIVES OF HONOR, OF RECTITUDE AND OF PROBITY HAVE ADORNED THE HISTORY OF CORPORATE MANAGEMENT AND DIGNIFIED THE COMMERCIAL CAREER.

RAILROAD GET JOLT

Change Tactics in Rate Fight After Adverse Decision.

St. Paul, Sept. 11.—In the hearing before Judge Lochren in the United States district court, E. S. Robert, attorney for the Northern Pacific Railway company, asked leave to file an amended petition in the rate fight now being made by the railroads of Minnesota against the 2-cent passenger rate and a reduced freight rate ordered by the state legislature.

Mr. Robert cited a number of authorities to show that the regulation of commerce and transportation rested wholly with congress. He admitted that the state had a right to regulate intorsate commerce and transportation, but beyond the confines of the state the state authority ceased.

Judge Lochren heard Mr. Robert and then informed him that he had no case, saying: "In my mind, most of the cases which have been cited on behalf of the complainants are distinguished from the case at bar. It is further a question in the mind of the court whether the interference here complained of is sufficiently direct to make the order and the acts invalid. I shall want this point made more clear than it has been."

This is a stunning blow for the attorneys for the railroads and the result was a conference and a change of tactics and the request to file an amended petition, which was granted.

SEEKS TO DELAY PAYMENT

Chicago, Sept. 11.—The Standard Oil Company of Indiana has applied to the U. S. circuit court for a writ of supersedeas to prevent the government from proceeding to collect the fine of $29,240,000 recently entered against it on the order of Judge Landis. Judge Grosscup, before whom the application was made, declined to take action until he had heard the arguments from the attorneys on both sides.

The arguments consumed the greater part of the day. The attorneys for the government insisted that the supersedeas bond, if the writ was granted, should be as large as the fine assessed against the company. The attorneys for the defendant argued in favor of a bond of $1,000,000. Judge Grosscup, while not specifying the amount of the bond, declared that he thought it should be equal at least to the total value of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

Gives Himself Up to Sheriff.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 11.—Chas. W. Host, a well known farmer living near Alhambra, walked into the office of Sheriff Jones here and surrendered himself, claiming he had killed Chas. Hesl, another farmer. Investigation showed his story to be true and Host was arrested on the charge of manslaughter and released on $5,000 bail. Host declared he cut Hesl with a pocket knife in self-defense. He put Hesl in a wagon and drove him to his home.

Rush for Citizenship Papers.

New York, Sept. 11.—More than 1,100 persons applied for first citizenship papers in the naturalization bureau of the United States court this week, a record number. Just what caused this unheard of rush was matter for much speculation at the federal building. Many of the applicants were Russian Jews.

Crushed by Steam Roller.

Milwaukee, Sept. 11.—Charles Fairles of Decatur, Ill., threw himself under a big steam roller on exhibition at the state fair. Death was instantaneous.

Harriman Says West is Booming But Holding Its Money Tight.

New York, Sept. 11.—E. H. Harriman, recently returned from a trip through the west, says that the west is more prosperous than ever before; that there are no signs of panic there, but that the people of that section are not now seeking investments. He added:

"In spots the crops will not be as good as last year, but the west will have fair crops. Our lines appear to be well favored. Crops are excellent along the lines of the Union Pacific.

"Country banks and individuals in the west have plenty of money, but they are not seeking investments. A great deal of money is tied up in this way, but the people who are hanging on to their money now later will be seeking investments. There is more money in the country than we believe but it is being withheld from free circulation because of some apparent fear or apprehension. I think securities have gone very much below what they should have gone under any circumstances."

Although he had seen no marked signs of business depression in the west, Mr. Harriman said that contraction is practically sure to come. The lack of money to carry out big enterprises, is alone sufficient, he said, to bring about this contraction.

Picks Up Part of Lost Ship.

Dunkirk, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Gus Ormsby, a fisherman, while lifting his nets off Van Buren point in Lake Erie discovered the wreck of the propeller Dean Richmond, which was lost in a storm with all on board in October, 1893. The Dean Richmond had a cargo of lead and copper ore valued at $200,000 and vain attempts had been made by underwriters and by private enterprise to locate the bones of the treasure ship.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Failure of front to materialize in the northwest offset a somewhat bullish report made by government officials on the condition of spring wheat and caused an easy tone in the local wheat market at the close, final quotations on the December delivery being off ½. MAKING A GOOD START.

Douglas Business College of Connellsville, Pa., Opened Sept. 3d with a fine attendance. The outlook this year is indeed most promising. Large classes of young men and young women have already enrolled, and they are taking up the work with vim and vigor.

There never was a better time or a brighter outlook for young people to secure a business education than now. The business men have made repeated calls at the college for office help when there were no graduates to sent out. Prof. Douglas is determined this year to secure a larger enrollment than last in order to supply the demand.

Any young man or young woman that is not satisfied with his or her present position or salary, or any one that wants to secure advancement, and be benefited for life, should either call at the college for a catalogue or write for one immediately.

CHAPTER VIII.

ONE of the first people to call on Miss Norman was a dry, wizen monkey of a man, who announced himself as Jabez Pash, the solicitor of the deceased. He had, so he said, executed Aaron's legal business for years and knew all his secrets. Yet when questioned by the police he could throw no light on the murder. But he knew of something strange connected with the matter, and this he related to the detective who was now in charge of the case.

This officer was a chatty, agreeable, pleasant faced man, with brown eyes, brown hair and brown skin. Also, to match his face, no doubt, he wore brown clothes, brown boots, a brown hat and a brown tie—in fact, in body, face and hands and dress he was all brown, and this prevalent color produced rather a strange effect.

The brown man, who answered to the name of Hurd, or, as he genially described himself, Billy Hurd, saw Mr. Pash, the lawyer, after he had examined every one he could lay hold of in the hopes of learning something likely to elucidate the mystery. "What do you know of this matter, sir?" asked the brown man pleasantly.

Pash screwed up his face in a manner worthy of his monkey looks. He would have been an absolute image of one with a few nuts in his cheek, and as he talked in a chattering sort of way, very fast and a trifle incoherent, the resemblance was complete. "I know nothing why my esteemed client should meet with such a death," he said, "but I may mention that on the evening of his death he called round to see me and deposited in my charge four bags of jewels. At least he said they were jewels, for the bags are sealed, and of course I never opened them."

"Can I see those bags?" asked Hurd amiably.

The legal monkey hopped into the next room and beckoned Hurd to follow. Shortly the two were looking into the interior of a safe wherein reposed four bags of coarse white canvas sealed and tied with stout cords. "The odd thing is," said Mr. Pash, chewing his words and looking so absurdly like a monkey that the detective felt inclined to call him "Jacko," "that on the morning of the murder and before I heard anything about it a stranger came with a note from my esteemed client asking that the bags should be handed over."

"What sort of a man?"

"Well," said Pash, diddling with his sharp chin, "what you might call a seafaring man. A sailor, maybe, would be the best term. He was stout and red faced, but with drink rather than with weather, I should think, and he rolled on his bow legs in a somewhat nautical way."

"What name did he give?" asked Hurd, writing this description rapidly in his notebook.

"None. I asked him who he was, and he told me—with many oaths, I regret to say—to mind my own business. He insisted on having the bags to take back to Mr. Norman, but I doubted him—oh, yes," added the lawyer shrewdly, "I doubted him. Mr. Norman always did his own business and never in my experience of him employed a deputy. I replied to the unknown nautical man—a sailor, as you might say; he certainly smelt of rum, which, as we know, is a nautical drink—well, Mr. Hurd, I replied that I would take the bags round to Mr. Norman myself and at once. This office is in Chancery lane, as you see, and not far from Gwynne street, so I started with the bags. When I reached Gwynne street I found that Mr. Norman was dead and at once took the bags back to replace them in this safe, where you now behold them."

"Is there a will?" asked Hurd, rising to take his leave.

Pash screwed up his eyes and inflated his cheeks and wriggled so much that the detective expected an acrobatic performance and was disappointed when it did not come off. "I really can't be sure on that point," he said softly. "I have not yet examined the papers contained in the safe of my deceased and esteemed client. He would never allow me to make his will."

"Well, I'm off to look for your nautical gentleman," said Hurd.

"Do you think he is guilty?"

"I can't say," said Hurd, smiling, "and I never speak unless I am quite sure of the truth."

Hurd had learned a great deal about the opal brooch from Sylvia and Deborah, and what they told him resulted in his visiting the Charing Cross hospital to see Paul Beecot. The young man was much worried. His arm was getting better, and the doctors assured him he would be able to leave the hospital in a few days, but he had received a letter from his mother, whom he had informed of his accident. She travailed his danger and wrote with many tears—as Paul saw from the blotted state of the letter—that her domestic tyrant would not allow her to come to London to see her wounded darling. This in itself was annoying enough, but Paul was still more irritated and excited by the report of Aaron's terrible death, which he saw in a newspaper. So much had this moved him that he was thrown into a high state of fever, and the doctor refused to allow him to read the papers. Luckily Paul, for his own sake, had somewhat calmed down when Hurd arrived, so the detective was permitted to see him. He sat by the bedside and told the patient who he was. Beecot looked at him sharply and then recognized him.

"You are the workman," he said, astonished.

"Yes, Mr. Beecot, I am. I hear that you have not taken my warning regarding your friend, Grexon Hay."

"Ah, then you knew his name all the time!"

"Of course I did. I merely spoke to you to set you on your guard against him. He'll do you no good."

"But he was at school with me," said Beecot angrily.

"That doesn't make him any the better companion," replied Hurd. "See here, Mr. Beecot, we can talk of this matter another time. At present, as I am allowed to converse with you only for a short time, I wish you to tell me about the opal serpent."

Paul sat up, although Hurd tried to keep him down.

"I will if you will tell me about Miss Norman. I'm engaged to marry her, and I hear she is ill."

"Oh, she is much better," said Hurd, pausing, pencil in hand. "Don't distress yourself. That young lady is all right, and when you marry her you'll marry an heiress, as I learn from the lawyer who does the business of the deceased."

"I don't care about her being the heiress. Will you take a message to her from me?"

"Certainly. What is it?" Hurd spoke quite sympathetically, for even though he was a detective he was a human being with a kindly heart.

"Tell her how sorry I am and that I'll come and see her as soon as I can leave this confounded hospital. Thanks for your kindness, Mr. Hurd. Now, what do you wish to know? Oh, yes—about the opal serpent, which, as you say, and as I think, seems to be at the bottom of all the trouble. Listen!" And Paul detailed all he knew, taking the story up to the time of his accident.

Hurd listened attentively. "Oh," said he, with a world of meaning, "so Mr. Grexon Hay was with you? Hum! Do you suppose he pushed you into the road on purpose?"

"No," said Paul, staring. "I'm sure he didn't. What had he to gain by acting in such a way?"

"Money, you may be sure," said Hurd. "That gentleman never does anything without the hope of a substantial reward. Hush! We'll talk of this when you're better, Mr. Beecot. You say the brooch was lost."

"Yes. It must have slipped out of my pocket when I fell under the wheels of that machine. I believe there were a number of loafers and ragged

"So Mr. Grexon Hay was with you?"

creatures about, so it is just possible I may hear it has been picked up. I've sent an advertisement to the papers."

Hurd shook his head. "You won't hear," he said. "How can you expect to when you know the brooch was used to seal the dead man's lips?"

"I forgot that," said Paul faintly. "My memory"—

"Is not as good as it was." Hurd rose. "I'll go, as I see you are exhausted. Goodby."

"Wait! You'll keep me advised of how the case goes?"

"Certainly, if the doctors will allow me to. Goodby." And Hurd went away very well satisfied with the information he had obtained.

The clew, as he thought it was, led him to Wargrove, where he obtained useful information from Mr. Beecot, who gave it with a very bad grace and offered remarks about his son's being mixed up in the case, which made Hurd, who had taken a fancy to the young fellow, protest. From Wargrove Hurd went to Stowley, in Buckinghamshire, and interviewed the pawnbroker whose assistant had wrongfully sold the brooch to Beecot many years before. There he learned a fact which sent him back to Mr. Jabez Pash, in London.

"I say, sir," said Hurd when again in the lawyer's private room, "that nautical gentleman of yours pawned that opal serpent twenty years ago, more or less."

"Never," said the monkey, screwing up his face and chewing.

"Yes, indeed! The pawnbroker is an old man, but he remembers the customer quite well, and his description, allowing for the time that has elapsed, answers to the man who tried to get the jewels from you."

Mr. Pash chewed meditatively and then inflated his cheeks. "Pooh," he said, "twenty years is a long time! A man then and a man now would be quite different."

"Some people never change," said Hurd quietly. "You have not changed much, I suspect."

"No," cackled the lawyer, rather amused. "I grew old young and have never altered my looks."

"Well, this nautical gentleman may be the same. He pawned the article under the name of David Green—a feigned one, I suspect."

"Then you think he is guilty?"

"I have to prove that the brooch came into his possession again before I can do that," said Hurd grimly. "And as the brooch was lost in the street by Mr. Beecot I don't see what I can do. However, it is strange that a man connected with the pawning of the brooch so many years ago should suddenly start up again when the brooch is used in connection with a terrible crime."

"It is strange. I congratulate you on having this case, Mr. Hurd. It is an interesting one to look into."

"And a mighty difficult one," said Hurd, rather depressed. "I really don't see my way. I have got together all the evidence I can, but I fear the verdict at the inquest will be willful murder against some person or persons unknown."

Hurd, who was not blind to his own limitations, like some detectives, proved to be a true prophet. The inquest was attended by a crowd of people, who might as well have stayed away for all they learned concerning the identity of the assassin.

So after questions had been asked, and evidence obtained, and details shifted, and theories raised, and pros and cons discussed, the jury was obliged to bring in the verdict predicted by Mr. Hurd: "Willful murder against some person or persons unknown," said the jury, and every one agreed that this was the only conclusion that could be arrived at.

Of course the papers took up the matter and asked what the police were doing to permit so brutal a murder to take place in a crowded neighborhood and in the metropolis of the world. "What was civilization coming to and," etc. All the same the public was satisfied that the police and jury had done their duty. So the inquest was held, the verdict was given, and the remains of Aaron Norman were committed to the grave, and from the journals every one knew that the daughter left behind was a great heiress. "A million of money," said the papers, which was not true.

CHAPTER IX.

BUT while London was still seething with the tragedy and strangeness of the crime Mr. Jabez Pash came to the heterogeneously furnished sitting room in Gwynne street to read the will. For there was a will after all. Deborah and Bart, who had witnessed it at the request of their master, told Mr. Pash of its existence, and he found it in one of the three safes in the cellar. It proved to be a short, curt document, such as no man in his senses would think of making when disposing of five thousand a year. Aaron was a clever business man, and Pash was professionally disgusted that he had left behind him such a loose testament.

Mr. Jabez Pash went to the sitting room, where he found the lovers seated on a sofa near the window, Sylvia was in Paul's embrace, and her head was on his shoulder. Beecot had his arm in a sling and looked pale, but his eyes were as bright as ever, and his face shone with happiness. Sylvia also looked happy. To know that she was rich, that Paul was to be her husband, filled the cup of her desires to the brim. Moreover, she was beginning to recover from the shock of her father's death and was feverishly anxious to escape from Gwynne street and from the house where the tragedy had taken place.

"Well," said Mr. Pash, drawing a long breath and sucking his cheeks, "you lose no time, young gentleman."

Paul laughed, but did not change his position. Sylvia, indeed, blushed, and raised her head, but Paul still held her with his uninjured arm, defying Mr. Pash and all the world. "I am gathering rosebuds while I may, Mr. Pash," said he, misquoting Herrick's charming line.

"You have plucked a very pretty one," grinned the monkey. "But may I request the rosebud's attention?"

Sylvia extricated herself from her lover's arm, with a heightened color, and nodded gravely.

"I wish Mr. Beecot to listen in any case," continued Pash dryly, "if he is to marry my young and esteemed client."

"We are engaged with the consent of my poor father," said Sylvia, taking Paul's hand. "I shall marry no one but Paul."

"The will," Pash said, looking at the writing, "consists of a few lines. It leaves all the property of the testator to 'my daughter.'"

"Your daughter!" screamed Deborah. "Why, you ain't married."

"I am reading from the will," snapped Pash, coloring, and read again, "I leave all the real and personal property of which I may die possessed to my daughter."

"Sylvia Norman!" cried Deborah, hugging her darling.

"There you are wrong," corrected Pash, folding up the so called will, "the name of Sylvia isn't mentioned."

"Does that make any difference?" asked Paul quietly.

"No. Miss Norman is an only daughter, I believe."

"And an only child," said Deborah, "so that's all right. My pretty, you will have them jewels and five thousand a year."

"Oh, Paul, what a lot of money!" cried Sylvia, appalled. "Whatever will we do with it all?"

"Why, marry and be happy, of course," said Paul, rejoicing not so much on account of the money, although that was acceptable, but because this delightful girl was all his very, very own.

"The question is," said Mr. Pash, who had been reflecting and now reproduced the will from his pocket, "as to the name?"

"What name?" asked Sylvia, and Deborah echoed the question.

"Your name." Pash addressed the girl direct. "Your father's real name was Krill—Lemuel Krill."

Clever.

Mrs. Potter—Did you see that? Dixon seized that rocking chair and was into it before his wife had a chance to reach it. And on his wedding trip too. Mr. Potter—That's just it. There's where Dixon is smart. Nobody will suspect that he is on his wedding tour, don't you see? And besides, he gets the chair.—Boston Transcript.

Gobbler's Unusual Role.

Decline of Our Family Life.

By Professor SHAILER MATHEWS, Dean of the University of Chicago Divinity School.

DIVORCE is increasing with ALARMING RAPIDITY. The conditions are much the same today as in the days of Jesus, when He forbade divorce, although it had become so common that a man might divorce his wife merely because she was not a good enough cook. So with us, the family has become a mere conventionality and a matter of personal convenience.

THERE ARE MANY YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN WHO ARE GROWING UP WITH THE IDEA THAT MARRIAGE, WHILE IT MAY NOT BE SIMULTANEOUSLY, AT LEAST MAY BE SUCCESSIVELY, POLYANDROUS AND POLYGAMOUS.

We fail to take our family relations with sufficient seriousness. WE GO INTO FAMILY RELATIONS WITH THE SAME SANG FROID THAT WE GO ON A PICNIC. It is so much easier to write books about child training than it is to bring up boys and girls.

We have need of better laws on divorce, we need better protection for children, but it is the business of the church to see that we have NOT MERELY BETTER LEGISLATION, BUT BETTER PEOPLE.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1906) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $200,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever, and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription," from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headlines, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was however brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

TESTED AND PROVEN.

There Is a Heap of Solace In Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Connellsville readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. No another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Mary E. Ryan, of 298 East Main street, Uniontown, Pa., says: "Several years ago my son learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at one of our drug stores. He began using them for backache and kidney trouble and found complete relief. Although it is many years since he testified in the Uniontown papers to this cure, he has suffered no return of his former trouble and is still recommending the remedy which gave this relief. I also learned the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills through the experience of my niece, who lives with me. In 1902 she was confined to her bed for ten weeks being helpless with pain in the back. She suffered spasms of pain and was also greatly distressed with headaches. The kidney secretions were in a terrible state, being highly colored and containing sediment. She was treated by doctors, one of whom said she had spinal trouble. As none of them helped her I came to the conclusion that the kidneys were the cause of her trouble and got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for her. By the time she had used two boxes she was up and around and four boxes brought about her recovery. I think these two cases are a good proof of the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills."

Nervous From a Little Child Up

Today she is strong and healthy as a result of the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

The genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills put up in a round flat box with blue and yellow label never fail, when intelligently used, to cure any and all childhood troubles caused by a run-down exhausted condition of the nervous system. They give strength, steadiness, natural sleep and general vigor. Just as Mrs. Mary Balfort of 321 Dearborn St., Buffalo, N. Y., says they did in her daughter's case. She says: "From a little child up, my daughter—now 21 years of age—has been exceedingly nervous, fidgety and restless—even of late years, work has been out of the question. Any exertion played her out—her sleep was far from good and constantly broken. I was advised to try Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. I got some and used them with fine results. The improvement was most marked—today she is in comfort—feels stronger and better in every way and sleeps well. The eyesight is better and stronger—none of the old watering of the eyes. It certainly is a splendid medicine." 50c a box at all dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

REGULAR SEASON.

Colonial Will be Opened September 16 With Splendid Attraction

What Pittsburg thought of the attraction which opens the Colonial's regular season Wednesday, September 18th

That story of Charles Major's which was the signal for so many so called historical novels—and historical plays—has survived the test of years and criticism Mary Tudor and Anne Boelyn and Lady Jane Bellingbroke and Jane Seymour are women we love, even if they had not been enshrined in romance After all it is not so far back to the court of King Henry VIII It is a pleasure to live over again the scenes which once must have taken place there in Windsor Park Who is there who would not gratefully offer his assistance to Mary Tudor? The courtiers of old were only creatures of circumstance Mary is with us still Her other name used to be Julia Marlowe, now it is Anna Day

Nobody at the Alvin last night would be ungallant enough to say that he did not like the new name If Mary Tudor could come back to earth she would be an ingrate indeed did she not say that she adored Miss Day Mary was a jolly good girl and it is ace to deuces that she would dictate a better criticism of Miss Day's interpretation than this But Mary Tudor is not the only person to be satisfied There is Miss Marion Manners, and her study of poor Jane Seymour must have been from the heart She forgot the novelist and the playwright when she planned her make-up She is the Jane we study in the library It's hard to think of her destiny and well to think that in reality she is mortal Never was there such a Jane Philip White has done just as well in his Henry VIII The support throughout is in keeping It is a good play and deserves long life

IS STRIKE OFF?

Oh! Yes Messages Being Sent in Record Breaking Time Over the Western Union.

Our Daily Bulletin

CONNELLSVILLE | PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING — TELLS TOMORROWS NEWS | UNIONTOWN

69c

An Inverted Gas Lamp.

No shadows, mantles last twice as long. Perfect combustion, does away with smoked ceilings.

We are selling this most modern of all Gas Lamps at 69c. Included at this price is the mantle and shade. We are demonstrating the superiority of these lamps in our Basement Store and you have but to see for yourself the vast difference between this and the ordinary gas light.

The Mantles are short and a jar does not break them as it does an ordinary mantle and it is suspended in such a manner that it is almost impossible to destroy it by a jolt.

No Shadows The inverted light casts no more shadows than does an electric light and it is this fact that alone would explain the enormous sale of this manner of gas lighting fixture.

Combustion perfection has never been absolutly reached in the combustion of gas. There has always been more or less smoke attendant upon the burning of gas, but the inverted light comes nearer the point of perfection than it was ever thought possible to attain.

Wright-Metzler Co.

OUR NATIONAL DANGER.

Time to Cry a Halt Before a Panic Comes.

The business spirit is crushing out the sweeter element of home life We are in danger of a great commercial decline, because men as a whole, think only of getting wealth

There are thousands both men and women who do not take time to eat properly They rush through life and as a result we have an age of indigestion nervousness irritability sleepless nights and morose disposition There is not much difference between downright suicide and the way some people disregard unmistakable signs of stomach trouble

With the great advance in the knowledge of indigestion and nutrition resulting in the discovery of Mi-o-na tablets there is no longer any excuse for one to have ill health from stomach weakness

Mi-o-na strengthens the walls of the stomach stimulates secretion of the indigestive juices regulates the liver and restores muscular contraction to the intestines and bowels so no laxative is needed

Sick headaches palpitation, bad taste in the mouth yellow skin fitful inability coated tongue and melancholy are a few of the many distressing results of indigestion Mi-o-na never fails to dispel all these troubles It is a scientific preparation guaranteed under the Pure Food Law by No 1418

A A Clarke sells Mi-o-na in 50 cent boxes, and guarantees to refund the money if the remedy does not give complete satisfaction 1
